R.-M. COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Lynchburg, Va., February 7.—On Monday afternoon about fifty Randolph-Macon alumnae from Lynchburg and vicinity, gave a luncheon at the Virginia liotel, the purpose of which was to arouse interest in the fund for the students' building.

The movement toward raising such a fund was started several years ago by the class of 1911, and has gained a new impetus from the intention to have the building as a memorial to the late Dr. W. W. Smith. The necessary pledges for funds are to be secured by June of this year, in order that the cornerstone may be laid at commencement. The plan is to have at that time a reunion of all alumnae and former Randolph-Macon students.

Miss Margaret Munson, of New York, field secretary of the movement, was present, and made a talk, in which she outlined the history of the movement, and told of her work in organizing the girls in various States and towns. Enthusiastic organizations have been effected in all the States east of the Mississippi River. Mrs. E. E. Menefee, chairman of the ways and means committee of the Lynchburg Chapter of Randolph-Macon alumnae, explained plans for raising money adopted by the Lynchburg chapter, and reported great success.

Dr. Webb made a talk, in which he gave every encouragement to the movement, and outlined future work for Randolph-Macon students and alumnae along the line of endowment funds.

On Tuesday night, in the college chapel, the first of a series of faculty lectures was delivered by President Webb, who spoke on "The Influence of Dante on English Poetry." The next lecture in the course will be given by Dr. Crooks, of the department of philosophy.
